All, Officials Now Push
Issue for Themselves

You read on this page last Friday an Associated Press dispatch from Little Rock reporting that the Association of Arkansas counties has adopted a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to give greater home rule and to revamp county government.

That phrase "revamp county government" you may take to mean higher county salaries, one of the stipulations in the proposed amendment being "to abolish the present $5,000 annual salary limitation."

The Star doesn't object to higher salaries for public officials, feeling they, like private wages, should be geared to the cost of living.

What we do object to is the gall of the county government lobby group in now proposing a measure largely resembling what was offered in the 1970 proposed new state constitution which the voters defeated in 1970.

The galling part is that much of the blame for defeat of that reform must be laid at the feet of county, city and state officials who almost to a man got out and fought it.

No instrument is perfect, and there were things in the proposed constitution which this newspaper didn't like—but we went along with the bill because of what it would do for home rule and self-taxation for county and city governments.

I still think Arkansas will eventually adopt most of the proposals which it rejected in the 1970 constitutional package.

But the county lobby measure just now proposed is a special-interest bill which will be soundly beaten the moment the voters get a crack at it.

School Asks for Dismissal of Lawsuit

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Salem School Board has requested Federal Judge J. Smith Henley to dismiss a lawsuit by a junior in the Salem school system over his right to wear a mustache.

Albert Rook filed suit Oct. 29 saying he was suspended from school Sept. 27 because he refused to cut his mustache.

Henley ordered the board to allow Rook to attend classes on Nov. 3 until the suit was decided.

The school district said that Rook had not attended classes after Henley made the ruling. The district said Rook was informed of Henley's ruling and the district had offered to help him make up work he had missed.

Senators Are Again Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., voted with the majority Tuesday in favor of an amendment that appropriates $500 million in military credit sales to Israel, including F4 Phantom jets.

The measure was passed 82-14.

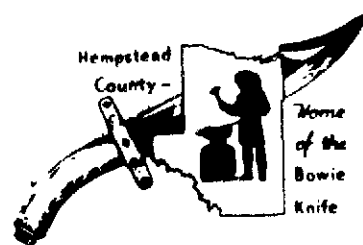

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., voted against the amendment.

British, Rhodesia Come to Terms for Return

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The British and Rhodesian governments agreed today on terms for the African territory to return to the Commonwealth and end the six-year-old rebellion to preserve white minority rule.

Terms of the agreement will not be made public until they are announced to the Rhodesian and British parliaments Thursday afternoon, a joint announcement said. But there was speculation that they provide for continuation of white control and advancement of the black majority toward political power some day.

Great Day for These Turkeys Until Thanksgiving

You are looking at a portion of a flock of 85,000 white turkeys. Some of them escaped this Thanksgiving but not one will get by Christmas. They mature in 24 weeks. The flock belongs to Montclair Poultry Co. and is located between Hope and Emmet. Cecil Bumpers is in charge of the firm's turkey production. The picture was taken during a visit by the Unity Baptist Kindergarten of Hope. James McGoughlin is in charge of this flock.

DeQueen Area Already
Has Shortage of GasBy DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

DEQUEEN, Ark. (AP)—Gas customers in this area are preparing for another one of their teeth-clattering, bone-rattling winters, due to a natural gas shortage.

Those without electric stoves and butane gas bottles just "bundle up and go to bed," said Buster Smith, Horatio Gas Co. superintendent.

Horatio has been without gas since Monday and the lowest temperatures have dropped so far was 38 degrees.

In Horatio, a town of 1,000, which has weathered a gas shortage before, people either use butane gas, electricity, wood or go without.

"There are a lot of old folks here," Smith said. "I don't know how they are going to make it... some can't leave town."

Monday, the gas shortage forced the DeQueen Gas Co. to shut down service to all industries.

DeQueen gets its supply from the Louisiana-Nevada Transit Co.

The DeQueen line also supplies Saratoga, Horatio, Mena and Dierks, all of which report low gas pressure.

The city of DeQueen is in a battle with the Federal Power Commission for a larger gas allotment and a decision is pending. DeQueen is asking for 11½ million cubic feet, instead of the five million cubic feet they are now provided.

"Our supplier just can't supply us," Ernest Norwood, DeQueen gas manager said. "We are just going to have to suffer. It is a pretty sad situation."

"We are down to 50 pounds, where we normally have 250," Norwood said.

Norwood said it was fortunate that the schools were dismissed for the Arkansas Education Association meeting the first two days of this week. He said that last year some of the schools in the area had to be closed several times because of the gas shortage.

If the city's suit is rejected, both men said they did not know what other action they could take.

Smith said that Mena had a pumping station on the line which draws off its supply. He said if the pump could be moved to draw gas for all the stations down the line for DeQueen the problem might be solved.

However, he said he did not know how much of a problem it would be to relocate the line.

Student With Long Sideburns
Back in School

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal Judge G. Thomas Eisele has ordered Judsonia school officials to allow David Hogue, 17, to attend classes until a lawsuit over Hogue's sideburns is decided.

Hogue has been barred from classes since Oct. 13 because school officials said his sideburns were too long. Subsequently, on Nov. 4 Hogue filed suit against the district saying that the district's rules violated his constitutional rights.

The suit also asked for a temporary injunction to allow Hogue back in school. Eisele granted the injunction Tuesday.

The trial has been set for 9:30 a.m. Dec. 28.

State Gets Grant for Rehabilitation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., said Tuesday that the state Division of Rehabilitative Services has received a $196,827 grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The grant is to be used to help disabled persons and welfare recipients find and hold jobs.

Five satellite units will be set up to serve all areas of the state. The units will be in Fort Smith, West Memphis, Morrilton, Hot Springs, and Helena.

Let Not Your Turkey
Be Served in Vain--
Lift Voice to Heaven

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A happy Thanksgiving holiday to all—

To the burns on the Bowery and the burns on Park Avenue.

To hearts at home and hearts away.

To all U.S. servicemen quartered here or stationed there, where the rain falls, where the snow flies, where the blood dries.

To all the homesick sailors on all the laboring seas.

To all who work for the United Nations and all who dream of its success.

To the nurses and interns in the hospitals—and their impatient patients, too.

To the cop on his beat and the cops in prowl cars.

To all sandhogs but no road hogs.

To lonely watchmen everywhere.

To priests and choir boys.

To trainmen and tramps.

To cabdrivers cruising empty streets.

To every flustered housewife standing sentinel at every steaming oven.

To you and to me and to all—

A happy, happy Thanksgiving.

Lift a grateful voice to heaven. Let not your turkey be served in vain.

This Trip Not Very Speedy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Traffic was backed up for several miles at the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge while motorists were given instructions on how to speed their daily commuter trips.

Bridge officials said many of the 23,000 cars which cross the bridge into San Francisco each day were delayed 10 to 15 minutes Tuesday while students handed each driver information on a plan to let autos with three or more occupants cross free.

The plan, which starts Dec. 8, is designed to encourage greater use of car pools to cut commuter-hour traffic.

Traffic was slowed to a crawl as far as six miles away on Interstate 80 while the information was being distributed.

Steel Prices Go
Up, AutoMakers
Want Increases

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General Motors Corp. has asked the Price Commission to approve a 2.5 per cent increase in 1972 prices, joining the other three Big Four car makers in requesting increased prices.

American Motors has received approval for a 2.5 per cent boost.

Chrysler's application for approval of a 5.9 per cent increase is pending, and Ford, which first asked for a 2 per cent increase, Tuesday boosted that to 4.4 per cent and also is awaiting approval.

The GM increase is based on rising costs, the company said. It would cover cars, trucks and optional equipment. A spokesman said GM also is seeking consideration of an additional 0.5 per cent boost in prices for product improvement.

Ford's revision of its requested increase is to cover costs other than those of labor, the company said.

Toyota of Japan said it was raising for the second time in two months the suggested retail price of its passenger cars sold in the United States. The increases average 1.6 per cent, the firm said, reflecting increased valuation of the yen, higher tariff rates and higher production costs on some models. In October, Toyota announced average increases of 8.8 per cent above 1971 models.

Steel prices went up Tuesday, with the Price Commission approving a 7.6 per cent boost for Bethlehem Steel and a 7.2 per cent increase for National Steel. Both apply only to tin mill products. The commission said higher labor and material costs justified the higher prices.

As a result of the tinplate boost, Continental Can Co. said it would ask for a 7 per cent increase in can prices.

The stock market fell again Tuesday, with Dow Jones industrials dropping 5.18 points to 797.97—the first reading below the 800 mark since Dec. 1, 1970.

Full Scale Fighting
by India, Pakistan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

India said today its troops have orders permitting them to attack across the border into Pakistan at any time and any place in self-defense, and that they have already done so on at least one occasion.

A government spokesman, elaborating on a Parliament speech by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, said local commanders at all levels were authorized to cross—even a private could go "if he is shot at from across the border."

India previously has denied its troops had or would cross the border under any circumstances, despite Pakistani allegations of large-scale attacks by Indian army units along the borders with the rebel province of East Pakistan.

India insists the attacks were launched by East Pakistani independence fighters, the Mukti Bahini. Mrs. Gandhi told Parliament the rebels have seized large sections of East Pakistan and inflicted heavy casualties on the Pakistani army.

Dispatches from Pakistan apparently were being delayed, but Radio Pakistan reported all Pakistani reserve officers and officers on leave before retirement were being ordered to report for duty immediately.

India partly mobilized its reserves last month.

Mrs. Gandhi told the Indian Parliament that no Indian troops were fighting inside East Pakistan, but she did acknowledge that Indian troops entered the province after a tank battle near the border on Sunday.

She said Pakistani infantry, supported by tanks and artillery, launched an offensive on the Mukti Bahini—the East Pakistani Liberation Army—who she said had liberated an area around Boyra, five miles from India's border.

"Pakistani armor, under heavy artillery cover, advanced to our border threatening our defensive positions," she said.

"Their shells fell in our territory, wounding a number of our men."

"The local Indian military commander took appropriate action to repulse the Pakistani attack. In this action 13 Pakistani Chafee tanks were destroyed."

The Boyra area, about 45 miles northeast of Calcutta, borders the Jessore district of East Pakistan, where the Pakistani government announced on Monday that 130 Indians were killed and an estimated 500 wounded in fighting that involved tanks.

Boyra is also across the border from the area where India claims it shot down three Pakistani F86 Sabre Jets on Monday. Pakistan said it lost two Sabres but insisted the battle with Indian Gnat fighters took place over East Pakistan, not over India as claimed by New Delhi.

The Pakistanis claimed two Indian jets downed. Mrs. Gandhi called the air battle a "purely local action."

Pakistan claims that hordes of Indian troops have crossed into East Pakistan in support of the Mukti Bahini.

"This is wholly untrue," Mrs. Gandhi said. "In fact, it was Pakistan which threatened total war and moved its entire armed strength into operational positions on our borders and launched a massive hate-India campaign with slogans, 'Crush India, conquer India.'"

Against Cut

City-Farm Week Observed by Kiwanians

JOHNNY C. BURKE FAMILY

ORVAL CHILDS

Tuesday's Kiwanis Club Program featured Orval Childs, Professor of Agricultural Economics at Southern State of Magnolia, as a part of the Annual Kiwanis Farm-City Week.

In his opening remarks he complimented the Johnny C. Burke family for being chosen the 1971 Farm Family of the Year.

On behalf of Hope Star, B.N. Holt, Secretary-Manager of the Hope-Hempstead County Chamber of Commerce, presented to the Johnny Burke family a beautiful plaque in recognition of the honor they have earned.

Kiwanian Horace Fuller, Chairman of the Kiwanis Agriculture Committee, had charge of the overall program which was attended by more than 50 guests, most of whom were farmers living in this area. Kiwanian K.G. Hamilton introduced Mr. Childs.

Mr. Childs stated that he tended to agree with a statement he had read to the effect that more changes had taken place in Agriculture since World War II than since the birth of Christ. "We are in an agricultural revolution", he said, "and we are going to continue to change." He stated that in the foreseeable future 2 percent of the U.S. Population would be producing for the entire population. Right now 600,000 producers are providing for 75 percent of all agricultural products.

Mr. Childs stated that if he were choosing a boy for one of his students, he would choose a boy from a farm family, living on the farm, and all working together to pay off a mortgage. "The greatest handicap of our youth today, as I see it, is that we are raising children who don't know how to do anything. They just haven't learned to work", he said. "Today money is keeping more children from getting an education than is poverty."

Carl Hamilton was introduced as the newest member of Hope Kiwanis Club.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Even if that rumor about Jackie Onassis' marriage contract is totally ridiculous—you've got to admit, it's a wonderful idea!"

Campaign Issue Aimed at Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are working to force an uncomfortable veto choice on President Nixon—and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says he thinks Nixon would accept the presidential campaign financing plan he has fought rather than kill his Phase 2 tax proposals.

The Arkansas Democrat, himself a potential contender for the presidential nomination, heads the House contingent of a conference that will begin working on the bill Monday.

Mills declined to say in advance what his position will be, but he did not discourage speculation that he will accept the campaign checkoff provision.

As approved by the Senate, the bill permits taxpayers to set aside $1 of their taxes on their income tax returns for a political party or a nonpartisan presidential campaign fund. Each party would have to choose between the public money and private financing.

Because Democrats need the money more, Republicans have said this amendment is a Democratic fund-raising scheme.

Senate Republican leaders earlier quoted Nixon as saying he would seriously consider vetoing the bill unless Congress deletes the Democratic-backed campaign financing plan and other Senate amendments boosting the tax relief it provides by some $11.5 billion.

But Mills told newsmen a veto would be "a severe jolt to the economy."

It would be impossible for the House to start over fashioning a replacement tax bill, he said, until it returns to session in January—and even then the Senate might reattach the amendment.

Mills indicated he favors cutting back the revenue loss provided in the bill closer to the House version.

But he said he does not take seriously the threat of a veto because of the campaign financing provision alone.

"I think the President would hesitate a long time before vetoing the bill because of this one provision, if it is included," Mills said.

"He has placed too much emphasis on the other tax aspects of the legislation when he set up his economic program in August."

The bill also contains, in somewhat modified form, Nixon's recommendations for an investment credit to encourage business spending on equipment and to provide special tax breaks for U.S. exporters. It goes well beyond Nixon recommendations in cutting taxes for individuals.

Mills said failure of Congress to enact the tax bill this year would contribute to what he called a continuing lack of confidence that is holding up economic recovery.

Up to Nine Inches Snow in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The snowstorm that moved into Arkansas Monday night left the state after a 24-hour run.

The snowfall at Little Rock was 4.4 inches, a November record.

The Forest Service reported nine inches of snow at Mountain View, five inches at Harrison and six and seven inches in the higher areas of north Arkansas.

Fair skies and cold temperatures are expected tonight with fair skies and warmer readings predicted for Thanksgiving. The cloudiness in the state is expected to decrease over the western and central sections of the state by this afternoon as a high pressure system feeds drier air into the state.

Highs Tuesday ranged from 36 at Little Rock and Harrison to 44 at Texarkana. Temperatures today should be in the low and mid 40s in the eastern portion and in the mid 50s southwest portion. Highs on Thanksgiving will be in the 50s to low 60s.

Lows tonight should be in the mid 20s to low 30s.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 34, Harrison 32, Jonesboro 34, Pine Bluff 36, Texarkana 41, El Dorado 37, Memphis 37, Little Rock 35 and Fort Smith 35.

Precipitation reports for the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. today include a trace at Fayetteville and Pine Bluff, .03 at Harrison, .12 at Little Rock, .15 at Memphis and .23 at Jonesboro.

Spy Amendment Is Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., voted with the majority Tuesday in rejecting an amendment which would have put a $4 billion ceiling on U.S. intelligence spending.

The amendment was defeated 56-31.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., voted for the amendment.

20,000 Saigon Troops Push Into Cambodia

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese forces advanced up the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway today and broadened a parallel offensive in Cambodia 60 miles to the northeast.

More than 20,000 Saigon troops are involved in the two operations, supported by South Vietnamese and American aircraft. None of the troops have encountered significant enemy resistance so far.

In the northern drive along Highway 7, more than 10,000 infantrymen, paratroopers, rangers and armored vehicles pushed eastward from Khek toward the rubber plantation towns of Mimot and Snuol.

More thousands of troops pushed northwest of Khek toward the Chup rubber plantation. Associated Press Correspondent J. T. Wolkstetter reported that South Vietnamese helicopters landed one battalion of paratroopers in the area of Churn, 20 miles from Chup. The paratroopers began setting up a base, apparently in preparation for an advance on Suong, on the edge of the plantation.

Hard fighting was anticipated at Chup, Mimot and Snuol.

The southern advance up Highway 1, the main road between Saigon and Phnom Penh, took 1,500 South Vietnamese infantrymen through the Parrot's Beak sector of Cambodia in the vicinity of Svay Rieng. It began today, the third day of the Highway 7 operation.

It was not known yet how far the South Vietnamese planned to advance along Highway 1.

May Invoke T-H Law in Dock Strike

By KEN GEPFERT
Associated Press Writer
A federal mediator says President Nixon may invoke the Taft-Hartley Act in an effort to get East Coast longshoremen back to work following a breakdown in negotiations aimed at ending the 55-day-old dock strike.

Chief federal mediator J. Curtis Counts said Tuesday after unsuccessful meetings with labor and management representatives at Miami Beach, Fla., that he considered Taft-Hartley action by the President "a real possibility."

Nixon invoked the act last month during a strike by West Coast dockworkers.

Thomas Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said dock workers would obey a back-to-work order if it were imposed under a cooling-off period.

Union officials have estimated some 45,000 ILA members and an additional 30,000 members of related unions are affected by the walkout, which stems from lack of a new contract.

ILA Vice President Anthony Scotto said he did not consider an agreement possible without Taft-Hartley.

"No matter how long we met, it wouldn't have made any difference," Gleason added.

James Dickman, president of the Council of North Atlantic Shipping Association, said industry representatives will remain in Miami Beach today to impose a cooling off period of up to 90 days.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Starting as a sickly infant, CBS' "Hawaii Five-O" has grown into healthy maturity. The series was almost cancelled after its first season, but now, four years old, the Jack Lord action show must be counted as a solid hit—it was in fourth place in the most recent Nielsen ratings.

The secret of the show's appeal is its setting, the lush tropical backgrounds of the 50th state. Against those big, waving palms, blue sea and big waves, they play cops and robbers of the most traditional TV style.

Tuesday night's episode was a good example. The islands' underworld, according to the script writer, consisted of four families who split up the gambling, narcotics traffic and vice. A mainland syndicate overlord sent over a representative to arrange for a cut. He was found, dead and tied to a stake in shallow water off a beach.

It only took the intrepid Steve McGarret, head of the state police force, to clean up the whole thing, but by this time it appeared that the criminal structure of Hawaii bore a remarkable resemblance to the state-side table of operation that was outlined so neatly in the novel "The Godfather"—except that the top men consisted of two Chinese, one Japanese and a Samoan.

Lord invests his role with a sort of bared-teeth intensity and restrained violence that give essentially threadbare situations some special excitement.

As a series, the program's fortunes rise and dip slightly from week to week, depending on the allure of its toughest competition, ABC's "Movie of the Week."

"CBS reports, in a documentary to be broadcast at the end of its Thanksgiving night schedule, gives a frank, strong report on affluent suburban life, an hour which is recommended viewing.

The expert and the beginner both use a standard no-trump with 4-3-3-3, 4-4-3-2, or 5-3-3-2 distribution and a 16-18 range in high cards. Some experts prefer a 15-17 point range and they all cheat a little so that any one of them will treat 15 points plus three or four 10 spots as a 16-point hand. They do use the no-trump as a precise picture bid and they also use very powerful methods of slam bidding in response to a no-trump opening.

One expert weapon is well within the reach of any player. It is the Gerber convention. The simplest way to use this convention is to provide that after a no-trump opening a jump to four no-trump is a strong raise in no-trump while a jump to four clubs is an artificial bid that asks for aces.

The basic replies to a Gerber four clubs are four diamonds to show no aces or all four aces; four hearts to show one ace; four spades to show two aces and four no-trump to show three.

If a Gerber bidder wants to ask for kings he follows up with five clubs; a four no-trump follow-up asks to stop right there.

Today's hand shows Gerber in operation. North wants to play in seven if his partner has the other three aces; in six if he has two of them and at just game in case South has just one ace. If South has no aces, North will quit at four no-trump.

South shows three aces and North bids seven no-trump. He knows that his partner will hold at least two diamonds so that if the king is held against him it will be a singleton.

Cure Is Worse Than Ailment

Dear Helen:

My husband has trouble getting up mornings, and I'm no help as I sleep through alarms too.

To solve the problem, he invented some kind of weird apparatus made with a truck horn, a timer, and I couldn't begin to explain the other things.

That aquatling monster at the foot of our bed (too big to go under it), stirs itself, buzzes, burps and every morning at 6:30 sharp, sounds off like a lonely foghorn in heat. I jump at least five feet! The only good thing about it is that it really DOES blast my husband to his feet in the mornings. (Somebody's got to turn it off before the neighbors call the cops.)

He's so-o-o proud of his brainchild. I'd like to murder it with an axe. Isn't there a better way?—MARRIED TO A MONSTER-MAKER
Dear MIMM:

A man so ingenious can surely invent a quieter way to get the job done. Why doesn't he whomp up an "ejecto-bed" that will flip him out at 6:30 a.m. like a piece of toast? Or a "monster" who nudges him awake, or pulls his big toe, or... look, friend, have you ever tried those alarm clocks that flash on lights and shake the bed?—H.

Dear Helen:
I almost cried when I read about the grandparents who are accused of "ruining" their grandchildren simply because they show normal affection. Thank you for your understanding answer. Every child needs a grandparent who takes time to listen, can even spoil a bit when necessary, and makes things right just by being there sometimes.

I had wonderful grandparents, now gone. My children have none as my husband is an orphan, and my parents were killed in a wreck three years ago.

We'd love to adopt a set of grandparents for our children like the ones who wrote to you, Helen. We wouldn't impose, or expect a lot: we just want two older people to love and be loved by all of us.

How do we go about it?—LOOKING
P.S. Is this a crazy request?

Dear Looking:
Crazy? Definitely not! And your request isn't unusual either. Several times a year I receive letters from families wanting to adopt grandparents.

Why not visit a senior citizens' club or hobby workshop? The most active older people attend these meetings. Surely you can find one couple here who would enjoy being part-time grandparents to your children. Good luck!—H.

RASPBERRY MERINGUE COOKIES
Raspberry jam is used under the meringue
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
Pinch of salt
1/3 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup (about) raspberry jam
Meringue, see below

On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; beat in egg yolk, then milk and vanilla; stir in sifted flour mixture. (Chill dough if too soft to shape.) Using 1 level tablespoon for each, make balls of dough and place at least 2 inches apart on a buttered cookie sheet; with heel of hand flatten balls to 1/4-inch thickness. Place 1/2 teaspoon raspberry jam in center of each cookie; top with Meringue, completely covering jam. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until edges of dough are browned—about 18 minutes. With a wide metal spatula remove to wire rack to cool. Store in tightly covered tin box. Makes 20 large cookies.

Meringue: Beat 1 egg white until stiff; gradually beat in 5 tablespoons sugar; fold in 1/3 cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans.

Freshly ground nutmeg to taste
Wash spinach, turn into a large saucepot with just the water clinging to the leaves. Over moderate heat, turning with a long-handle fork, briefly cook spinach until wilted but still bright green. Drain, press out liquid and chop coarsely; return to saucepot. Add remaining ingredients, mix well and heat. Makes 6 servings.

Says Husband Threatened Her

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ernest Borgnine's estranged wife says the actor threatened to kill her, their two children and himself.

Donna Ann Borgnine, 38, who filed for divorce Sept. 13, disclosed the alleged threat Monday during a custody hearing.

Mrs. Borgnine appeared in Superior Court accompanied by two guards. Asked by Judge Joseph Warner why she had the guards, Mrs. Borgnine replied, "Because Mr. Borgnine had threatened to kill me, the children, and himself."

Judge Warner allowed her to retain custody of the children, Christopher, 5, and Sharon, 6. He ordered Borgnine to pay his wife $1,630 a month in temporary support.

Knicks Trample Cincinnati in NBA Action

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — That old Knick magic's got the National Basketball Association in its spell.

"We're really playing well now," said Dave DeBusschere as the revitalized New York Knicks walloped Cincinnati 125-110 Tuesday night with a punch reminiscent of past seasons.

DeBusschere's generalization can be broken down into specifics, namely: defense. That was the Knicks' formula during their 1969 championship season.

And that was their magic again Tuesday night.

"Defense creates offense," said New York Coach Red Holzman, whose club won its fourth straight game and climbed over the .500 mark for a change after struggling out of the starting gate this year.

In the night's other NBA games, Buffalo topped Atlanta 102-97; Milwaukee turned back Detroit 112-104; Cleveland trimmed Baltimore 104-102; Chicago smashed Portland 130-94 and Phoenix 128, Philadelphia 107.

New York's run-and-gun offense was powerfully evident right from the start as Dick Barnett led a first-quarter charge with 12 points, hitting his first four field goal tries.

"We're running better and we're handling the ball better," said Holzman, explaining the Knicks' reversal of early-season form that produced an unlikely 6-9 record, and, at one time, had them in last place in the Atlantic Division.

"It's a big thing, being over .500 ... It's been a long time coming," said DeBusschere, who snared 20 rebounds and scored 17 points in but 28 minutes of play against the Royals.

Another Royal pain in the neck was Walt Frazier, who has been another reason for the Knicks' sudden-found power. He scored 23 points and passed to teammates for four more baskets, something he's been doing with regularity in recent games.

Led by Barnett, Frazier and Jerry Lucas, the Knicks showed who was boss right away by shooting 60 per cent from the field and carving out a 65-39 halftime lead. It was all downhill for New York after that, despite a game-high 24 points by Cincinnati's Nate Archibald and 23 more by teammate Jim Fox.

Walt Hazzard, traded last summer, came back to haunt Atlanta as he scored 30 points to lead Buffalo's victory.

Facing his former teammates for the first time since his trade, Hazzard kept the Braves ahead in the foul-loaded contest. After Atlanta closed within one point with a minute left, Hazzard scored just as the 24-second clock ran out to make the score 100-97.

Then Walt Bellamy missed for the Hawks and Buffalo's Bob Kauffman grabbed the rebound. Rookie Elmore Smith's goal provided the Braves with their final two points.

Kareem Jabbar scored 34 points to lead hot-shooting Milwaukee over Detroit.

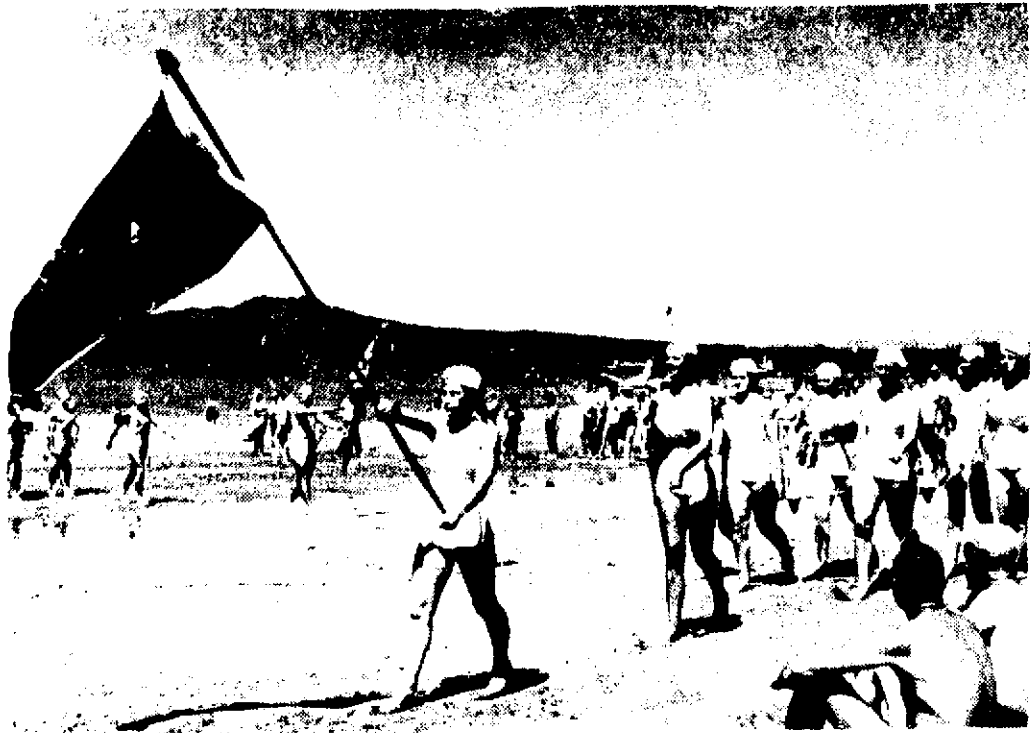

The defending NBA champions, breaking a two-game spin, shot almost 60 per cent from the field. Bob Dandridge threw in 24 points for the Bucks, while John Block and Oscar Robertson had 15 each. Bob Lanier scored 28 for the Pistons.

John Johnson and rookie Austin Carr sparked a second-half scoring binge to lead Cleveland over Baltimore. Johnson wound up with 25 points to lead the Cavaliers while Carr, the club's No. 1 draft choice starting his second game after recovering from a foot injury, scored 22.

Archie Clarke, who scored 10 points to lead a last-quarter Bullet comeback try, led both teams with 30 points.

Chet Walker scored 23 points to lead six Chicago players in double figures. The Bulls roared to a 35-20 first-quarter advantage behind Walker's 13 points and never were threatened. Sidney Wicks, Portland's ace rookie, scored 25 points for the losers and added a touch of comedy by putting the ball in the wrong basket on one play. Those two points went to Chicago.

Rookie Moe Layton, making his first start of the year, tallied 27 points as Phoenix stopped Philadelphia.

DATELINE NEW ZEALAND, and what might appear another case of Women's Lib on the march is a girls' lifesaving team on show at the Championship Surf Carnival in Auckland. In New Zealand, as in beach-oriented Australia, lifesaving is an art practiced as a sport.

LSU Players Share Lineman of Week Award

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State has cornered this week's market in national honors at the expense of Notre Dame, with Ronnie Estay and Andy Hamilton being chosen co-holders of the National College Lineman of the week award.

"This is almost unbelievable," shouted Estay, the emotional one of the pair. "But I know this—the fact that Andy and I were chosen together certainly makes it typical of what the LSU team has felt. It takes our offense and defense working together to make the Tigers go."

Estay led a defense that held Notre Dame scoreless until the final minutes of the game and stopped the Irish offense three times within the Tiger 10-yard line, one of those just inches from the goal.

Hamilton caught three touchdown passes to lead the LSU offense that upset the Irish 28-8 before a national television audience.

For their efforts, The Associated Press voting board decided the two should share the honors.

"I must admit that I like hunting and I miss it right now during football," Estay explained, "but for everything that's happened, I'm a pretty happy boy."

Hamilton agreed, saying that the victory over Notre Dame "proved the value and quality of Southern football to the nation."

Actually, Hamilton is listed as a splitback, or flanker, but Saturday night he lined up most of the time at split end in another successful LSU move to confuse the Irish.

Hamilton, a 6-3, 190-pound wide receiver from Ruston, La., caught seven passes for 153 yards, including the three touchdowns. Two of those TDs were tossed by his cousin, Bert Jones.

Estay, a 6-1, 230-pound tackle from LaRose, La., was in on 17 tackles, 13 of them unassisted, in the Notre Dame game and spearheaded a defense that stopped the Irish three times on fourth-and-one inside the LSU 10.

Others considered for Lineman of the Week honors included linebackers Mike Taylor of Michigan and Bobb Lally of Cornell, defensive end Butch Brezina of Houston, defensive tackle Mark Steiner of Harvard and split ends Bob Wicks of Utah State, Nate Reynolds of West Virginia and Tom Reynolds of San Diego State.

Lucci Named NHL Defensive Player of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — "They gave me the game ball," said Mike Lucci. "If they hadn't given it to me I would have kept it anyway."

Who's going to argue with a 6-foot-2, 230-pound middle line-backer?

In this case, nobody. Detroit's defensive signal-caller and captain took it away enough times and did so many other things so well in the Lions' 28-3 smothering of the Chicago Bears to win it outright.

The performance also earned the 30-year-old, 10-season veteran from Tennessee the selection today as The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League. He edged out Los Angeles Rams cornerback Gene Howard.

The Lions, harassing quarterback Bobby Douglass all day and keeping Chicago well out of touchdown territory, intercepted four of his passes and Lucci got three of them, running one back 27 yards for a touchdown.

He also led wave after wave of charges that sacked Douglass eight times for losses totaling 62 yards and limited the Bears' net passing yardage to a measly six, a particularly notable feat considering the eight sackings equalled the Lions' performance in the preceding nine games.

"No, we didn't change anything in our pass rush," Lucci said. "Our backs were against the wall and everybody put out a little more. We just had to have this game."

The Lions, clinging to slim playoff hopes, went into it in third place in the National Conference's Central Division, one-half game back of the Bears. They came out of it in second—but they still trail Minnesota by 1 1/2 games with four to go.

Detroit Coach Joe Schmidt echoed Lucci's feelings. "We're capable but we hadn't done it until today. This was a must. We had to win."

"I just can't say enough about Lucci. I just wish I had a room full of guys like him. He's playing on a bad leg and a bad ankle and still gave a great effort," Schmidt said.

Like Lucci, Howard intercepted three passes, one of them a touchdown killer in the end zone, as the Rams, picking off four John Brodie tosses and limiting San Francisco to a pair of field goals, beat the 49ers 17-6 to regain first place in the NFC West.

Bear Progress

Paul "Bear" Bryant, veteran coach at Alabama, has moved into fourth place on the all-time list of major college football coaches. Bryant's 20th win enabled him to pass Jess Neely and advance on third-place Warren Woodson, who had 239 victories. Amos Alonzo Stagg, with 314 wins, and Pop Warner, with 313, lead the list.

Hard-running Larry Csonka of the Miami Dolphins has incurred nine fractures of the nose, in football, wrestling and from a cow. The cow-caused broke a nose when Csonka was feeding the animal on a farm in Ohio and got butted for his trouble.

Cougars Defeat Va. Squires in Close ABA Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A crowd of 10,015 came out to see the Virginia Squires in their new $35 million sports palace, but went home short-changed when Carolina's Jim McDaniels cashed in two big shots.

A foul shot and a field goal by the Cougars' star rookie paced a 102-98 American Basketball Association triumph Tuesday night as the spinning Squires launched their new Scope complex in Norfolk, Va.

It was the fourth straight loss for the Squires, who also play in Hampden, Roanoke and Richmond.

In the night's other ABA contests, it was Utah 114, Pittsburgh 112 and Dallas 104, Denver 101.

The Scope crowd, largest ever to see the Squires in Virginia, roared its approval as the home team took a 98-96 lead on two Bernie Williams' free throws with two minutes left in the game.

But Virginia couldn't find the range after that as McDaniels, the Cougars' No. 1 draft pick, delivered a foul shot and then scored on an old-fashioned hook shot to shove his club into the lead. Free throws by George Lehmann and Larry Miller added to the final Carolina margin.

A jump shot by Jimmy Jones with five seconds remaining gave Utah its cliff-hanging triumph over Pittsburgh.

The Condors had a 110-103 lead with just over three minutes remaining when Utah's Glen Combs dumped in seven straight points to tie the game with less than a minute left.

John Brisker put the Condors ahead with a basket with 50 seconds remaining, but Jones jumper with 39 seconds left tied the score at 112 and set the stage for his winning field goal.

Dallas connected on four free throws in the fading 32 seconds to upend Denver.

The Chaps trailed throughout the second half before finally catching the Rockets at 96 and then took the lead for good at 102-101 on a pair of free throws by Steve Jones with 32 seconds left. Joe Hamilton added the icing with two more free throws at the four-second mark.

Butler Named NFL Offensive Player of Week

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons' hard-running halfback, Jim "Cannonball" Butler, was named the National Football League's offensive player of the week after the Falcons out-muscled Green Bay 28-21 Monday night.

The 5-foot-9, 195-pound speedster gained 64 yards in 16 carries, ran for one touchdown and set up another with a spectacular 82-yard kickoff return—all against a Packer defense that has surrendered only one rushing touchdown in previous games.

"I got excellent blocking," Butler said modestly when informed of the honor.

"They do have a tough defense," he added, "but we were up for this game. We went out there to play hard."

Asked about the 82-yard kickoff return at the beginning of the second half, Butler commented: "I got perfect blocking to get in the open and then I avoided a couple of guys. I just happened to hit the right hole at the right time."

"He's been playing real well," said coach Norm Van Brocklin, whose Falcons stayed in contention for the NFL's Western Division title with the victory.

Butler came to the Falcons at the beginning of the 1968 season after the Pittsburgh Steelers put him on waivers. He was not picked up and he came to the Falcons as a free agent.

After two or three games on the taxi squad, he was activated and he's earned his way ever since. This year he has gained 531 yards, caught 12 passes for 138 yards, run back nine kickoffs for 273 yards (a 30.3 yard average) and scored four touchdowns.

His nickname is a leftover from college play at little known Edward Waters College in Jacksonville, Fla., a school that has since given up football.

"I scored five touchdowns in one game and the next day I was 'Cannonball,'" he said.

Patterson in Knock-Out

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Former world champion Floyd Patterson knocked out Charlie "Emperor" Harris in 2:31 of the sixth round Tuesday night as he continued his campaign for a third world heavyweight title bout.

Patterson floored Harris with a left hook and a right hand for a nine count moments earlier, then finished him off with the same combination.

It was the sixth straight victory for Patterson this year and the 39th knock-out in his 61-fight career.

St. Louis Blues in 3-1 Victory Over LA Kings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Blues aren't blue over their newest asset—hard shooting Jack Egers.

Egers rifled two goals Tuesday night leading the Blues to a 3-1 victory over the Los Angeles Kings. In Tuesday's only other National Hockey League game, Minnesota edged Vancouver 2-1.

The Blues acquired Egers in a seven-player trade with the New York Rangers last week and in five games since then, he has scored four goals.

Egers got the Blues started Tuesday banging a shot off goalie Rogation Vachon's shoulder for the game's first goal with 6:05 left in the opening period.

After Gary Sabourin made it 2-0 later in the period, Egers upped the count with less than three minutes gone in the second period when he banged a rebound past Vachon.

Los Angeles' only goal came by Bill Flett midway through the second period, depriving Blues' goalie Jim McLeod of the shutout.

Thinks Meet Party Held in Memorial Nursing Home

of YD's More Liberal

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Bob Allen, new president of the Young Democrats of America, says a "more liberal consensus" than in past years prevailed in deliberations of the organization's National Convention here last week.

Allen, 31, a Phoenix, Ariz., lawyer who considers himself a liberal, said this reflected the involvement of more "young" Young Democrats in politics with their concerns about the Vietnam war, ecology and other social issues.

"The young are demanding more attention from the Young Democrats and the YDs are going to be increasingly responsive," Allen said.

The platform written by the delegates was considered to be the most liberal ever written by a convention of the Young Democrats, who range from college age to 35. It was pushed through by delegates, mindful of the voting strength of the newly enfranchised 18-to-20 year olds, hoping to make an imprint on the senior party's platform at the national convention next year at Miami, YD officials said.

Dennis B. Ross, 22, of San Francisco, who wrote the anti-war plank of the YD platform, said the Young Democrats should show the way if the Democratic party is to attract substantial numbers of the 25 million newly enfranchised and otherwise maiden voters in 1972.

Too long, he said, the Young Democrats have been subservient to the senior party.

"We've always been a lackey," he said of the Young Democrats organization. But it's too early to say if this convention was a departure from the lackey role.

The platform called for a reordering of priorities to focus more attention on domestic issues, endorsing such matters as gun control, no-fault car insurance, a guaranteed annual income of $6,500 for a family of four, national health insurance, a cabinet level post by itself for education, a public defender program to represent indigents, campaign spending limits, abolition of the death penalty and repeal of "oppressive state laws" on marijuana possession, abortion and sexual behavior of consenting adults.

The convention not only called for complete and immediate withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam, but also said Young Democrats would support no presidential candidate who did not commit himself to the position. The delegates also called for amnesty for draft evaders.

Observed one veteran Young Democrat, "If this really is the consensus of the Young Democrats in the United States, the next five years should be interesting."

There was some skepticism of the platform exercise. One YD said to friends, "The old heads will let the kids write the platform, but they will continue to run things."

Older Young Democrats generally run the organization and there was some resentment by the younger members toward them. As a result, there was a push to put a ceiling of 30 on membership age. But backers of the effort had to settle for a change in the YD constitution that would ban only officeholding past the age of 30.

Delaware First in AP College Division

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Delaware, which closed out its football season last weekend by trouncing Bucknell 46-8, finished No. 1 in the final standings of The Associated Press College Division poll today.

The Blue Hens collected nine first-place votes from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters for a total of 256 points, 23 more than second-place McNeese State, a 20-10 winner over Southwestern Louisiana Saturday. Delaware finished with a 9-1 record while McNeese State was 9-0-1.

Eastern Michigan, which concluded its season two weeks ago, collected 61 points to finish third with a 7-0-2 record.

Delaware will compete in the Boardwalk Bowl for the fourth consecutive year when it meets C.W. Post College of New York at Convention Hall in Atlantic City, N.J., Dec. 11.

None of the top-ranked teams were shaken up in the final balloting, although North Dakota State, ranked No. 10, was replaced by Arkansas Tech.

Louisiana Tech, 8-2, a 23-0 victor over Northeast Louisiana, moved from fifth to fourth and traded rankings with Tennessee State, 9-1, a 61-0 conqueror of Central State, Ohio.

Western Kentucky, 8-2, retained its No. 6 ranking while Boise State, 9-2, downed College of Idaho 28-21 for seventh place. Akron, which shared seventh last week with Boise State, secured eighth place by blanking Youngstown 7-0.

North Dakota, which wound up its season early, finished ninth with a 6-3-1 mark.

The Top 10 teams, points based on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-8 etc. system:

1. Dela.	9-1	256
2. McNeese St.	9-0-1	233
3. East. Mich.	7-0-2	201
4. La. Tech	8-2	153
5. Tenn. St.	9-1	150
6. West. (Ky.)	8-2	96
7. Boise St.	9-2	92
8. Akron	8-2	91
9. No. Dak.	6-3-1	72
10. Ark. Tech	11-0	46

Mills Displays Scorn of Nixon Administration

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, who in 33 years in Congress has dealt with administrations of six presidents, has scorned President Nixon's as "the most inept administration with which I have had any relationship."

"Everything you look at, like the balance of payments, they mess it up," the Arkansas Democrat told some 500 persons at a $10-a-ticket fund raising dinner here Tuesday night.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, rapped the President's "new prosperity" as a program that has been built on the nation's first world trade balance deficit since 1893 and the highest amount of deficits in two consecutive years since World War II.

"Those of us who are accustomed to this kind of evidence do not believe in the illusory promises of a new prosperity by an administration that has brought us a recession," Mills said.

"To me, this has been the most inept administration with which I have had any relationship in the 33 years in which I have served in the Congress of the United States," said Mills.

Speaking to newsmen before dinner, Mills predicted that a tax bill amendment to finance presidential campaigns through personal deductions would be passed by the House if it is included in a conference committee report.

He Took Bus to See Gal

CHICAGO (AP) — A man who wanted to see his girl friend decided the best way to get there in the cold weather was to take a bus.

To the displeasure of the Chicago Transit Authority, police said Tuesday, Carroll McQuire, 21, climbed behind the wheel of a CTA bus and started driving.

Police said the man made a couple of mistakes. First, they said, McQuire didn't look anything like a bona fide bus driver because he was wearing plaid bell-bottom trousers and sunglasses.

Secondly, he stopped occasionally to pick up passengers—including a Chicago policeman who had been alerted to the theft.

McQuire said the police had the wrong version. He explained that he had been a passenger on the bus and that the regular CTA driver had gotten off to get a cup of coffee and had asked him to drop the bus off a storage barn. He said he decided to stop by his girl friend's place on the way to the barn.

McQuire, charged with theft of the bus and criminal trespass of property, said next time he'll take a taxi to his girl friend's house.

Henderson Says He Was Unaware

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Writer

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) —

Col. Oran K. Henderson says he was so unaware about what really happened at My Lai that when questioned 1½ years later "I continued to maintain that no such atrocity or massacre could have occurred."

The 51-year-old career officer, who is charged with concealing the massacre, returns to the witness stand today at his court-martial for more cross-examination.

In his first day of testifying in his own behalf Tuesday, Henderson said he relied on subordinates' word that there had been no "excessive killing of civilians." He said his report to his division commander reflected what he believed to be accurate: 20 civilians killed accidentally by helicopter gunship and artillery fire along with 128 Viet Cong during the March 16, 1968 sweep through the village.

"You still admit you were responsible for the investigation that was conducted?" asked Maj. Carroll Tichenor, the prosecutor.

"I don't know whether I'm responsible in a legal sense," said Henderson. "In the sense of a soldier, I'm responsible for anything my unit does or does not do. There's just no other way to skin the cat."

Henderson was the commander of the Americal Division's 11th Brigade during the assault.

After his initial investigation, and a report he submitted six weeks after My Lai, Henderson said, he heard nothing more about the assault until he was summoned to Washington by an Army investigator. At that time, in May 1968, Henderson said he could not even recall the proper name of the village.

And finally, when he was called as the leadoff witness to the Pentagon's My Lai inquiry in December 1968, "I continued to maintain that no such atrocity or massacre could have occurred."

Two aviation commanders attached to Henderson's 11th Infantry Brigade—Lt. Col. John Holladay and Lt. Col. Frederic Watke—testified earlier in the four month old trial that Henderson was told of reports of more than 100 civilian deaths in a meeting with Brig. Gen. George Young two days after My Lai. They said Young at that meeting ordered Henderson to look into the charges.

The Army accuses Henderson in one count of disobeying that order.

Southside Day Care Center Is Planned

In a recent survey of the south side of the City of Hope it was found that a great need exists for a place to care for children of working mothers and potential working mothers.

The group found it to be a culturally deprived area with little or no pre-school stimulation and badly in need of a Child Development Center. The survey shows that a large number of children, ages three to six years, are in need of day care and there is no such center.

A group of concerned residents desires to operate a center in order to establish a program to meet the basic needs and characteristics common to all children yet considering each child as an individual. It is desired to establish a program where each child can have a safe, wholesome environment and given the care and protection needed such as safety, health, self confidence, social development, independence and creative experiences.

In order to operate such a center the cooperation of individuals, organizations, parents and friends are needed. Urgent needs are sheets for cots, blankets, toys, playground equipment, story books, kiddy records, food, clothing. All contributions will be appreciated by all the volunteer workers.

The effort is not church supported and non-denominational. Applications may be made regardless of race, creed or denomination.

It is planned to open the center November 29 from 6:50 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the educational department of the Free Christian Zion Church of Christ. For details contact the organizers: Mrs. Neva Carmichael, Mrs. Marie Cooper, Mrs. Mattie Bazzelle, Mrs. Irene Beard or Mrs. Louise J. Yerger.

Sailor Contacts Case of Spinal Meningitis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A second sailor at Memphis Naval Air Station has spinal meningitis, the disease which claimed one life at the base earlier this month, the Navy says.

A spokesman at the 15,000-man base said Airman Apprentice Steven C. Gore, 18, of Salt Lake City, Utah, died of the disease Nov. 9.

The latest case of the disease has resulted in hospitalization of another sailor, also 18, who is listed in "satisfactory to excellent condition," the Navy said Tuesday. His name was not released.

The base said there was no sign that the disease was spreading, although persons who had contact with the two sailors were being kept under medical surveillance and other precautions were being taken.

still barely into the change-over.

So it is that the new and old cultures are constantly colliding.

As example, take the problems of Neville Polson. He is a 19-year-old, relatively mod aboriginal youth. And he's in love with Violet, a 17-year-old relatively mod aboriginal girl. She loves him, too. They want to get married. Et cetera, et cetera.

The problem is that, according to the old customs of the tribe, Violet has been promised since birth to another man—a middle-aged, relatively conservative fellow who, as it happens, has no nose. (The nose was bitten off a few years ago during a forgotten argument.)

So there it is. A twisted triangle.

Neville and Violet have made no secret of their romance. They've been dating regularly for months. And so far no trouble has resulted.

But soon Neville is bound to marry the girl. And the war will likely break out. The rejected (noseless) suitor will no doubt get hot. And so will the older members of all the families involved. Federal authorities on the reserve are concerned that blood will spill.

Officials here admit there is little anyone can do to prevent bloodletting of some sort. Although the aborigines are liable to Australian law, they do not necessarily (sometimes rightfully) obey it.

In this case, Australian law forbids one of the oldest of aboriginal customs—the promising of brides. The tradition dates from the time tribal chieftains guaranteed future bliss by marrying infants. It has also been a traditional way of settling debts, obligations, and so on. And it is also part of the complex aboriginal family structure which prohibits willy-nilly, take-your-pick marriages.

The custom seems odious. It is in fact a slave tradition. But to the aborigines, it is a sacred right not to be tampered with.

So, sadly Violet still belongs to the chap with no nose.

And legally Neville must just go fish.

But Neville is not about to give his true love up. Women don't count for much in the aboriginal society. They are in fact dutifully subservient to their men. (They are

China Likely to Spell Out UN Role

By MAX HARRELSON
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Communist China was expected to spell out in a major policy speech today what role it will play in future U.N. disarmament talks.

Ambassador Huang Hua, China's permanent U.N. delegate, was scheduled to address the 131-nation General Assembly as it approached the end of its debate on a Soviet proposal for a world conference on disarmament to supplement the work of the 26-nation Disarmament Committee meeting in Geneva.

U.N. diplomats anticipated that Huang would give Peking's views on the whole approach to disarmament rather than limiting his statement to the Soviet proposal.

Answers to these questions were expected:

—Would Peking attend a world disarmament conference if one were called?

—Would it insist on its previous position that such a conference must be at the summit level?

—Would it accept the Soviet proposal that the conference be held outside the framework of the United Nations or would it go along with the majority which wants the conference under U.N. auspices?

—Would it announce it is joining the Geneva Disarmament Committee, the principal vehicle for arms negotiations for the past decade? Or would it, like France, boycott the committee?

The Chinese already have rejected a Soviet proposal for private summit talks among the nuclear powers and have spoken out strongly against deals made privately by the Russians and the Americans.

Some diplomats close to the Chinese believe their aversion to the superpowers would rule out their participation in the Geneva talks as they are presently organized. The participating countries were selected by the United States and the Soviet Union and affirmed by the General Assembly. The United States and the Soviet Union alternate as chairman.

Some delegates supporting the current debate have suggested that consultations must be begun to find a way to bring Peking into the disarmament discussions. At the same time, most have urged an early resumption of the Geneva talks, apparently hoping that the Chinese would take part.

Several resolutions are now pending in the assembly urging that France and China join in the partial nuclear test ban accepted by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union in 1963. The resolutions also call for an end to all testing without referring specifically to the recent Chinese test in the atmosphere or to the U.S. underground test in the Aleutian Islands.

URGES CLOSER LINK
PARIS, Oct. (AP) — Walter Tost, valedictorian of the 1971 graduating class of Paris District high school, called for a closer link between high schools and universities in his speech at recent commencement exercises.

He said students are often bewildered by the content of courses they have selected for their university degree. He said high schools should provide specific information about universities and their courses and that university calendars should be more informative.

Martha's Car Furnished at Taxpayers Expense

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Whenever Martha Mitchell wants to leave her luxury apartment by the Potomac she telephones for a sleek, chauffeur-driven black sedan leased by the federal government.

Keeping a 1972 Mercury at the disposal of the attorney general's wife 24 hours a day costs the taxpayers $850 a year, plus the driver's salary of about $8,300.

"Those cars are supposed to be for official use only, not for Cabinet wives," said a General Services Administration official when told Mrs. Mitchell has been assigned her own car and driver since President Nixon took office.

The GSA assigns government-owned cars for use by bureaucrats with the exception of top executives and is responsible for seeing that they are properly used.

Mrs. Mitchell's car comes from a pool reserved for top Justice Department officers, but the GSA official said he finds it "highly unusual" that she has her own.

He said government regulations would have to be stretched for officials to send their drivers to pick up their wives even on a temporary basis.

The GSA official and a Justice Department administrator familiar with Mrs. Mitchell's car were reluctant to identify themselves.

The Justice official said the practice of making cars available to the wife of the attorney general is not new.

Autos were set aside for use by Mrs. Ramsey Clark, Mrs. Nicholas Katzenbach, Mrs. Robert Kennedy, Mrs. William Rogers and Mrs. Herbert Brownell, while their husbands ran the Justice Department, the official said.

How about other Cabinet wives in the Nixon administration?

"Mrs. Rogers, I think, has one because of all the diplomatic receptions at the State Department, but I doubt if budget restrictions will allow the others (to have them too)," the Justice official said.

By TOM TIEDE

YUENDUMU ABORIGINAL RESERVE, Australia—(NEA) — For thousands of years the storied Australian aborigines lived in tribal societies which were relatively free of controversy and clamor. The social system was simple and strict. The leaders decided tribal policies and anybody who objected was removed to a final resting place.

Now, however, as it must to all "civilized" peoples, the aborigines are going through the agonies and antics of the changing world.

Old people cling to old thoughts.

Young people opt for new ways.

In short, a generation gap is making the natives restless.

Here at the Yuendumu reservation, the evolution is particularly clear and stinging. Many of the 1,000 aborigines at this settlement have only lately come into the white man's ways. The Wailbri people left the bush 20 years ago; the Pintubi people came out in the 1960s.

As a group then, they are as "primitive" as any that exist in Australia. Unlike the natives who have been gobbled up in the dominant culture, the Yuendumu band is OLD WAYS DIE HARD among Australia's aborigines. Restive young want change, but for older generations custom is still custom.

Cites Need to Protect Drivers

Dolores McBride, Extension Home Economist, leads county leaders in discussing needs to protect drivers. Miss McBride said that since the Agricultural Extension Service began sponsoring the Defensive Driving Short Course in 1969, four county short courses and three community short courses had 'graduated' 473 drivers taking the 8-hour short course. The Extension Service stresses the need for groups and leaders throughout the county to join in a cooperative effort to protect the drivers. Extension acts as a coordinating agency in uniting county support, interest, and concern in preventing automobile accidents.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The first photograph of the moon made in the United States was a daguerreotype taken by John Draper, professor of chemistry at New York University, New York City, Dec. 18, 1839. The World Almanac says. The photographic plate was exposed for 20 minutes and the image was one inch in diameter.

SHOWBEAT

TV Commercials Set Film Trends

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Michael Cacoyannis, one of the world's great movie directors, was in town. And he spent most of his leisure hours glued to the television set — to watch the commercials.

He thinks they're good and, what is more surprising, believes that American TV commercials have had a major impact on motion pictures.

"Take the quick cuts that are so important in films today," Cacoyannis says. "They first started on your commercials. Now everybody does it. So whenever I'm here, I watch commercials—they're good fun and generally much better than the shows."

Cacoyannis' latest is "The Trojan Women," with Katharine Hepburn, Vanessa Redgrave, Genevieve Bujold and Irene Papas. He says the four women—all highly individual ladies with highly individual temperaments—got along beautifully.

"But that is not surprising," he says. "Yes, they are all temperamental, but they are also professional. And they all have a great respect for each other's ability."

He shot the film in only eight weeks. He is, he says, a director who shoots fast and tight, and he does his own editing as he goes along.

He never works on more than one project at a time. When he has finished one, then and only then does he look to the future and his next job.

At the moment, he's planning to direct a Broadway play with Melina Mercouri, his great discovery. After that, probably another film, although he's not sure what it will be.

"I'm mulling over several ideas," he says. "I don't let them stew—things that stew never come to a boil. I just think about them idly, and one will come to be."

Cacoyannis is one of the few people who believes that movies are doing well these days. He doesn't join the general chorus bemoaning the state of the art.

"If you counted movies from all over the world," he says, "from places like Hungary and Sweden, I think you would find that more movies are being made today than ever before. As for the quality, I think the average is probably as high as it's always been."

TALL TALE

Alan Arkin, at 5-11, isn't exactly a shrimp. Yet he says he has to keep looking up at girls.

He's doing "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" for Howard Koch at Paramount and he says he's working with "short giantesses."

"I'm getting a stiff neck on this show," he says. "I feel like a tourist looking up at New York's skyscrapers."

The tourist is that the three girls who are in "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" with him are Sally Kellerman, 5 feet 10½, Paula Prentiss, 5 feet 11, and Renee Taylor, 5 feet 10½—and they all walk around in high heels.

"If they're all on the set at the same time," Arkin says, "I feel like I'm standing in the middle of a redwood grove. It's good looking and good smelling, but it makes you feel like a dwarf."

Arkin, with the help of his stand-in, John Marlin, has come up with the answer to his feelings of inadequacy. Marlin comes in at a smallish 5-7. To help him in his stand-in trade, he has designed special shoes. He can add six inches to his height, an inch at a time, if need be.

"Every once in awhile," Arkin says, "I borrow Marlin's trick shoes. Then I show those girls how to look up to a man."

Fit for a Gourmet

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Makes 6-8 servings.

COINTREAU VENISON ROAST

1 venison haunch or rump or leg roast, about 8 to 10 pounds
Buttermilk, about 1 quart
Salt, lemon-pepper, garlic powder
½ pound thick, sliced bacon
1 small onion, grated
1 cup Cointreau or orange juice
Juice of 1 lemon

Soak roast in buttermilk to cover overnight. Drain and wipe dry. Sprinkle meat with salt, lemon-pepper and garlic powder. Place bacon slices over meat. Combine remaining ingredients and brush over meat. Roast on a rack in a shallow roasting pan in a preheated 350-degree oven 2 to 2½ hours or until meat thermometer registers 140 degrees. At this point, the venison is rare.

Can also be roasted longer to the desired degree of doneness. Brush venison with glaze every 30 minutes during roasting. If desired, remove bacon and cut venison into thin slices. Serve garnished with mushroom caps, artichoke bottoms stuffed with rosettes of seasoned pea or carrot puree and parsley sprigs. If desired, skim fat from pan drippings and thicken slightly with flour mixed with water and serve spooned over venison slices.

Selenography is the scientific study of the moon.

DUCKLING A L'ORANGE

2 (4-pound) ducklings
6 oranges
4 lumps sugar
4 tablespoons vinegar
1½ cups glazed meat sauce
1 cup Cointreau liqueur or orange juice

Clean and dress ducklings. Roast in 325-degree oven until brown (allow 35 minutes per pound). Skim fat from liquid in roasting pan. Stir to dissolve all brown particles. Bring to a boil. Add juice of 2 oranges and the peel of 2 oranges, cut into small strips. Simmer the orange peel for 5 minutes. Dissolve sugar in saucepan to a caramel consistency. Stir in vinegar, glazed meat sauce and Cointreau or orange juice. Simmer a few minutes, do not boil. Pour glaze over ducklings. Garnish with orange slices and water cress.

The one-piece "Kitty Foyle" dress (left) has the look of separates. Removable and washable crisp white cuffs are added to a stark black bodice belted and attached at the waist to a woven daisy print A-line skirt. When the mood is one of youthful elegance, the essence is practicality. Ruffled dress, right) is in washable wool. New broad shoulders add old nostalgia as does the antique silver belt buckle. These designs are created and modeled by Marion Digney.

THANKSGIVING NOT FOR TURKEYS

Dear Sue:

Other guys call their girls "sweet little chicks," etc., so what do you say when your own special guy introduces you as his turkey-bird? He loves me but I feel—PUTDOWN

Dear Put Down:

Tell him you aren't his Thanksgiving Dish!—SUE

And speaking of Thanksgiving, here are a few things girls DON'T give thanks for:

...One wilted red rose left by a dork, when she hoped for 12 from her secret admirer.

...A guy who dances with you all evening, introduces you to all his friends, holds your hand, walks you to the car—and then says, "Well, see ya later."

...A guy who opens the car door then gets in first!...Or cuts the birthday cake and gives you the smallest piece...Or pulls out a chair for you to sit upon but "accidentally" forgets to put it back under you. (He's the type who would throw his coat over a mud puddle—walk over it himself, then ask YOU to wash it!)

...When you're about to sneeze—the fella who's always there with the greasy handkerchief.

...When you pick up five kids on the way to school—it's your car and your gas—and they pass around gum, then give YOU the wrapper to throw away.

...Or you invite your new guy over, turn down the lights and start soft music—then he switches on the 150 watts to read the Hot Rod magazine he brought along—and stays late so he can watch the fights on TV.

...Getting all shook to see the

One and Only HIM waiting for you at the classroom door, only to hear him say, "Hey, how about giving me back that pen you borrowed?"

...When your Dad yells almost right into the mouthpiece, "Hey, Sis, Bob's on the phone"—and it's Pete!

...Studying all night for a test—and the teacher calls in sick.

...A friend who insists you switch from YOUR favorite program to hers—then falls asleep on the floor.

...The catty gal who, when you think you're looking greatest, asks, "What's the matter, kid? You look so TIRED!"...Or says, "Hey, your slip's been showing all night!"...Or points out the hole in your nylons, just as you've finally got HIS attention.

A n y w a y , H A P P Y THANKSGIVING!—SUE

Dear Rap:

My parents have best friends whom I'm supposed to live with should anything happen to them.

Well, I spent five weeks with them this summer, and it was the dullest vacation I ever had. The mother is picky and bossy. The father won't let me do anything. The kids are blah. I'D DIE if I had to live with them.

How can I get it across to my folks that if I have to have adopted parents, I'd rather choose my real great cousins and not these dopey friends? —WORRIED

Dear Worried:

Why worry about something that is almost sure not to happen? I think your folks have made too much of an issue about it, too. —HELEN

How do you know when to raise your partner's no-trump opening to four no-trump? It is a simple matter of counting points—the key number is 33 for a small slam.

If you hold just 14 balanced points opposite a no-trump the most your side can have is 32 so you just raise to game. With 17 the least you can have is 33 so you bid six no-trump.

Thus the raise to four no-trump shows 15-16 high-card points. If you have just 15 you need a couple of 10 spots to give your hand some extra playing strength.

North has 15 high-card points plus three of those 10 spots. He raises to four no-trump. South holds 17 points and decides to make the super scientific call of five no-trump. North carries on to the small slam and hopes for the best.

The best eventuates. It turns out that North's 10 of clubs is worth a trick. South knocks out the club ace and takes three clubs, three

Hope-Filled and Happy Designs

NEW YORK (NEW) For Marion Digney, most famous in a new wave of young fashion designers, the mood of our times is both hope-filled and happy. Specifically, the many moods of romance, elegance and pure femininity highlight not only her exciting collections but her entire way of life.

This pretty and totally feminine young blonde not only designs and wears her own clothes, but models them as well. And her work is obviously one of her pleasures in the charming studio where she spends her days. She possesses an artist's ability to remove herself from the distractions of the busy New York garment industry.

Here she recently completed a collection of designs for young women like herself who shun the shocking, dislike innovation for its own sake and desire to dress with imagination but in keeping with their own lives. Her collection includes fashions for both work and play. For Marion wears her designs at "the office" as well as after hours in the mid-city, jungle-inspired apartment where she lives with her new husband, Martin Delin.

On their evenings alone the Delins share the excitement of other plans on the drawing board. Those for the glass-enclosed, right-sided new "home in the room" where they'll advance their ideas for peaceful settings in the wild in this case on the shore of the Delaware River deep in New Jersey farm country.

Though both consider themselves to be private people, the Delins frequently ask close friends to dinner. Contented guests are happy to comment that Marion is as accomplished in the kitchen as she is in the world of fashion design. But she herself admits that her first love is fashion.

Shaping is a favorite pre-occupation with her as is adding the distinctively modern Digney touch to beloved fashion classics.

Kitty Foyle made a fashion impression on us long ago. Marion's "Kitty Foyle" dresses are perfect for the 70s. Here the mood is one of feminine elegance but the practicality is an important counterpart. Those crisp white cuffs are both detachable and washable.

The same desires are met in fabulous dresses of a new 100 per cent washable wool, which is the basis for other dresses such as a beautifully ruffled style designed for the wistful romantic look that made grandmas the stunner she was.

Attention to detail is obvious in the soft, body-molding fabrics that make the Digney collection so appealing when worn.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

A new agent has been discovered which may help control mosquitoes without requiring use of insecticides harmful to other organisms. The World Almanac says that scientists have noted that mosquitoes die when exposed to a crude garlic extract. Garlic's pungent odor is released when its enzymes are bruised or chewed.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Kidneys Function As Blood Filters

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—During my last physical exam, my doctor found my urea nitrogen to be double the normal.

I had my kidneys X rayed and also had dye injected into my blood and this was also X rayed as it passed through my body.

My doctor says everything was O.K. He didn't explain to me what urea nitrogen was. I'm worried about this and wondered if I'm going to have trouble in the future. I understand this is a kidney malfunction. Please help.

Dear Reader—First, quit worrying. Urea is the chemical compound left over after protein is metabolized. Individuals who eat a lot of meat or other foods high in protein form more urea than individuals eating a lower protein diet. Within broad ranges, urea is not harmful to the body.

The urea formed by the body is excreted in the urine. In this way, the kidney filters off the excess amounts.

Since urea contains nitrogen, the laboratory test to measure the amount of urea in the blood is done by measuring the nitrogen in the urea—hence, the term "urea nitrogen." If there is an increased amount of urea in the blood, left over from protein metabolism, the urea nitrogen measurement is increased.

Now, if the kidneys are damaged and not functioning properly, they don't filter the blood adequately and excess urea accumulates in the blood. This possibility is why your doctor examined your kidneys so carefully. And, happily, he found out your kidneys work fine.

To filter the blood of urea efficiently, the kidney must be able to flush out a considerable amount of water, which is the amount of urine formed each day. If a person is not passing much urine, the urea can also build up in the bloodstream.

A common cause for increased amounts of urea nitrogen in healthy people is a diet rich in protein, the meat eaters are usually the ones, with a low intake of fluids or water. This is particularly true if the person works in the hot sun and loses a lot of water in sweat rather than through the formation of urine. A lot of blood tests are also done after a night of fasting, which adds to the likelihood of high urea nitrogen values. I saw a lot of these in young, healthy pilots that merely reflected the eating, drinking and exercise habits of these men. The elevation in urea nitrogen within broad limits in such cases is entirely normal.

Your doctor was wise to test you carefully to rule out any important cause. He has done that and now you can relax. I might suggest, though, that you improve your water drinking habits, especially before your next examination.

Home Office Is Tax Saver

By CARLTON SMITH

We're taking on a group with an awesome reputation as experts, but don't let the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants talk you out of taking a tax deduction for office space in your home, if you qualify.

Savings are apt to be illusory, the CPAs warn, because the tax bite on the sale of a home that's appreciated in value could outweigh the benefits you've enjoyed over the years. We're not convinced the arithmetic in a typical case will bear that out.

What's involved is the tax that must be paid if you sell your home at a profit. When there's a gain on the sale of a house that's all residence, the tax can be deferred if you put your profits into the purchase of another home.

Not so if you've been expensing an office. The place has been, technically, part business property. You actually report two separate sales—one of the residence, one of the business property—and if there's a capital gain on the latter, you cough up the tax on your next return.

The CPAs suggest that this tax could amount to more than you've saved, year by year, on income taxes. Let's see how a fairly typical case works out.

Fred J., an outside salesman, buys a house for $28,000 and sells it 10 years later for $36,000. Meanwhile he's used one of seven rooms as his office. The gain on that one-seventh of the property is therefore immediately payable as capital gains tax. But it's highly unlikely, to begin with, that he has a taxable gain of $8,000.

For tax purposes, Fred's cost is certainly going to be larger than the nominal $28,000 he paid for the house. Most of his closing costs, and some other expenses, can be added in—perhaps $700. Improvements made during his ownership also increase his cost—let's say by $2,000, to an adjusted "basis," for tax purposes, of $30,700.

Similarly, his selling costs—broker's commission, attorney fees, etc.—will reduce his net sale price to perhaps $33,500. The taxable gain, therefore, is not $8,000, but only $2,800. One-seventh of that would be only $400. But...

As one cost of maintaining the office in his home, Fred has been entitled to take one-seventh of the yearly depreciation on the house (exclusive of land). This would normally total about $800 over the 10 years. Now Fred has to "give it back" by taking it off his cost. It all works out to a long-term capital gain on the "business property," not of only $400, but of $1,486. If Fred is in the 25 per cent bracket, the tax bite is $366.

How much, meanwhile, has he saved on taxes by expensing his office costs? The depreciation allowance, averaging about $80 a year, is only a small part of the costs he can list. He's entitled to one-seventh of the property taxes, of the insurance on the house, the heating costs, basic utilities.
